Storytelling

workshops for children

Presented by Lois Peterson

Through a range of interactive activities including, drawing, role-playing, writing and brainstorming, children create collaborative stories that express their imagination and creativity, and learn to work in a cooperative environment.

Magic Carpet Storytelling workshops are designed for children ages 6 to 11, and are offered to schools, public libraries, and community centres, in 1-½ hour sessions for groups of 8 – 45 children.

Sessions for teens or younger children can be arranged.

Lois Peterson is a children's author (Meeting Miss 405, Orca 2008), experienced storyteller and creative writing instructor. She worked in a public library for 30 years, many of which were spent helping children, parents and teachers select suitable reading and research materials and presenting story times and programs.
